

Samuel Davidovics

Associate Advisor

sdavidovics@techpargroup.com

Samuel Davidovics is a skillful hands-on business oriented executive with 30+ years of experience leading information management and technology resources in the healthcare, financial, legal, eBusiness, and publishing industries. As the CIO of several large corporations, he has proven his ability to provide strategic leadership, reduce capital and operating costs, improve performance, and strengthen customer service. As the President of a software company that developed one of the most successful online litigation software products, he demonstrated his customer focused project leadership and his in-depth technical expertise. With a Ph.D. in Computer Science specializing in database optimizations, he has a proven track record in developing and building new technology products in online databases, state of the art software, systems integration, multimedia and Internet products.